

TASTE MACE FOR THE FIRST TIME

Mace is the loneliest seasoning in your spice rack. At least he was, until Celery Salt and Paprika started a yacht club and taught Mace succulent sea-shanties aboard their schooner the Old Bay. In total, eighteen seasonings crossed boiling seas, bound for the distant islands "Blue Crab," "Sweet Corn," and "Jumbo Shrimp." Maybe it was the music, or the lack thereof, but the islands themselves picked up the harmony "Yo-ho-ho and a tin of Old Bay. Wooh." Mace still isn't well known. But the friends he does have, let flavor speak. And that's all that matters.
